

Raise Your Profile with the People Who Matter

Community Partners are limited in number and must be invited by UIDP. They publicly align with our mission and values, invest in UIDP, and actively engage with our membership.

The cost for inclusion in this program is $20,000 a year or $50,000 with a three-year commitment. Contact us at info@uidp.net to learn how your organization can become a Community Partner.

UIDP Community Partners

Our Community Partners are organizations and agencies that are not eligible for general membership, but whose mission and work are complementary to UIDP. They possess skills and tools that are relevant to the UIDP community and that boost our efforts to develop and disseminate strategies addressing common barriers to university-industry collaboration.

It makes smart business sense to elevate awareness of your organization’s offerings through highly visible support as UIDP advances strategic partnerships among top-tier universities and industries around the world.

Community Partners work with UIDP in a variety of ways that advance our aligned principles and goals, such as co-branded reports or a customized service offering. Below are some examples, but Community Partners are welcome to bring their own ideas to the table.

The benefits far outweigh the investment:
